Ho Fengshan: The “Chinese Schindler” Who Saved Thousands of Jews

Wayne Chang

When Ho Fengshan (何凤山) died at the age of 96 in 1997, he took a secret to his grave. The only clue was a single sentence in his obituary (讣告).

Throughout his long life, Ho never mentioned his heroic deeds during World War II — not to his wife, his children or friends.

During 1938 to 1940, Ho, the consul general (总领事) of the then Chinese Nationalist government's consulate (领事馆) in Vienna, saved perhaps tens of thousands of Jews from the Holocaust with just his pen.

When Jews desperately sought visas to escape from Nazi-occupied Austria, he issued thousands — regardless of his superior's orders.

The exact number of entry papers Ho issued — and the number of lives saved — may never be known, as too many have already been lost to time. But based on the serial number of one visa nearing 4,000, the best estimate is that thousands of visas were issued.

Ho is often hailed as “the Chinese Schindler,” in honor of the industrialist Oskar Schindler who saved 1,100 Jews by employing them in his factory located in Poland.

While other countries refused to issue visas in fear of aggravating (激怒) the Nazi government, Ho was probably the first diplomat to really take action to save the Jews.

“That is the kind of person he was — very principled, straightforward, and has integrity,” says Ho Manli (何曼礼), daughter of the late diplomat, who has been researching her father's story for some ten years.

Group Work: Work in groups and discuss the following question:

 What kind of character do you see in the brief description of the diplomat?

(Answers may vary.) At that time China suffered at the hands of the Japanese just as Jews suffered at the hands of the Nazis. Even while China suffered under Japanese invasion, the Chinese like Ho Fengshan were willing to extend a helping hand toward the Jews in Europe. He showed his humanitarian courage and compassion in the rescue of Jews. His actions made a difference between life and death for the Jews and put Shanghai as their last resort. He was a man of conscience and courage with a compassionate heart.

Pair work: The Nazis claimed they were Aryans (雅利安人) and viewed themselves as the “master race.” They wanted to wipe out all the Jews. Read the Culture Notes that follow the Text on page 58 and watch a short video clip about this background information. Then, listen to it attentively twice and complete the following paragraph according to what you have heard. Compare notes with your partner.

“Marriages between Jews and German citizens or those of similar blood are forbidden.” The Marriage Law, one of the Nuremberg Decrees (法令) of 1935, was aimed at protecting the purity (纯粹) of German blood. The Nazis divided people into racial types. They said Germans were descended from (为……的后裔) the Aryan race. This propaganda (宣传) film shows Aryans of old, the Teutonic Knights (日耳曼骑士), supposedly the root of all German culture and nobility. Pure Aryan Germans could be recognized from their blonde (金黄色的) hair and blue eyes. It was all a fantasy (虚假的东西) but the fantasy was dressed up (被装扮成) as science. Germans were being taught to think of other races as somehow less than perfect, and the German people bought the lie.

Watch the video clip and discuss the following questions with your classmates.

- 1 What was written on the gate of the model concentration camp?
- 2 Who were the first prisoners in the concentration camp?
- 3 What did the SS do to the prisoners?
- 4 How were Jews depicted by the Nazis?
- 5 What was taught to German school children?

Aryan

The term refers to the Indo-European speaking tribes in ancient times. It was used in Nazi racial theory to describe persons corresponding to the “Nordic” physical ideal of Nazi Germany. Hitler claimed the Aryans were the people who founded the German Tribes and were the forefathers of all German culture. He held that these Aryans were superior beings than other human races, especially the Jews.

雅利安人一词指古代操印欧语系的民族。纳粹分子用这个字眼指德国、北欧等地“金发碧眼”的日耳曼人。希特勒声称雅利安人是日耳曼部落的祖先，也是整个德国文化的祖先。他认为雅利安人比其他人种，尤其是犹太人，优越。

Yad Vashem Holocaust Memorial

Israel's official memorial to the victims of the Holocaust, established in 1953 through the Yad Vashem Law passed by the Knesset, Israel's parliament. Yad Vashem is located in Jerusalem. During World War II, about 6 million Jews were killed by the Nazi Germans by order of Adolf Hitler. This mass killing of the Jews came to be known as "The Holocaust."

Hitler tried to wipe out all the Jews in Europe. In areas under German control the Jews were killed, mainly in mass open air shootings, and gassed in extermination camps. Others were worked to death in concentration camps.

犹太大屠杀纪念馆，位于耶路撒冷，1953年根据以色列国会通过的纪念法令而建。纳粹德国在第二次世界大战中的种族清洗活动中屠杀了近600万犹太人。纳粹德国对犹太人的大屠杀被称为“The Holocaust”。希特勒欲消灭欧洲所有犹太人，为此在其控制地区大批犹太人在灭绝营遭集体屠杀，还有许多人在集中营被折磨致死。

Are Aryans superior (优秀的) to other races? Read the story, and you will find how idiotic (愚蠢的) the Nazi racial theory was. They were even unable to tell who did and did not belong to their “master race.”

The “Perfect Aryan” Child

Terrence McCoy

- 1 The newlyweds came to Berlin as students, a pair of Latvian Jews who wanted to make it big in singing. In 1934, just after Adolf Hitler took control of Germany, the wife became pregnant with a child who would soon become known as the “perfect Aryan.”
- 2 The photo was everywhere. It first appeared in a Nazi magazine and then was splashed across postcards and storefronts.
- 3 Less well-known, however, was the fact that the “Aryan” girl it claimed to show was actually Jewish.
- 4 As remarkable as that revelation is, more remarkable is the story that accompanies it. The girl, now 80 and named Hessa Levinsons Taft, recently presented the magazine cover, on which there is her baby photo, to the Yad Vashem Holocaust Memorial in Israel and offered her tale to the German newspaper Bild.

5 It begins in 1928 when her parents came to Berlin. Both were singers. The father, Jacob, had accepted a position at a local opera house. It was the time of surging anti-Semitism in Berlin, and when the company found out his Jewish origin, it canceled his contract.

6 Living in a very crowded one-room apartment, the young couple gave birth to Hessy Levinsons on May 17, 1934. She was beautiful. So when she was 6 months old, the parents decided to have her picture taken. They took her to one of the best photographers in Berlin, and he came out with a very beautiful picture.

7 Her parents liked it so much that they framed it and put it up on the piano. They had thought the picture was a private family photo. But soon after, a woman who helped clean the apartment arrived to deliver some surprising news.

- 8 “You know,” the woman said, “I saw Hessy on a magazine cover in town.”
- 9 Hessy’s mother found that impossible to believe. A lot of babies look the same, the mother explained, and surely the helper was mistaken. But she wasn’t.
- 10 “No, no,” the helper explained to Taft’s mother. “It’s definitely Hessy. Just give me some money, and I’ll get you the magazine.”
- 11 Money changed hands, and the maid soon returned with a magazine. The cover photo was exactly the same picture that was there, resting on the piano. The magazine was a Nazi magazine with pages full of images of men wearing swastikas and even one of Hitler himself reviewing the troops.
- 12 The parents were terrified. Why was their Jewish infant on the cover of a Nazi magazine?

13 They contacted the photographer and tried to find out what had really happened.

14 The photographer told them that he had been asked to submit his 10 best pictures for a beauty contest run by the Nazis. So were 10 other outstanding photographers in Germany. And he sent in Hessy's picture.

15 "But you knew my Hessy is a Jewish child," the mother exclaimed.

16 "Yes," the photographer said, explaining there had been a competition to find the perfect example of the Aryan race to further Nazi philosophy. "I wanted to allow myself the pleasure of this joke. And you see, I was right. Of all the babies, they picked this baby as the perfect Aryan."

17 Family stories are always prone to exaggeration — but this appears to be true. Taft has a large collection of photographs that show her in numerous publications and cards. “I can laugh about it now,” said Taft, now a chemistry professor at St. John’s University in New York, “But if the Nazis had known who I really was, I wouldn’t be alive.”

18 The parents were equally shocked and “amazed at the irony of it all.” In the weeks afterward, the picture was everywhere. One time, Taft said, her aunt went to the store to buy a birthday card for her first birthday in May of 1935, only to find a card with Taft’s baby picture on it. “Without saying a single word, my aunt bought the postcard, which my parents brought with them throughout the years.”

19 Eventually, the family fled Europe and found refuge in Cuba for years before immigrating to the United States. In the late 1940s, the Levinsons family settled in New York City, and Hussy got married and became Hussy Levinsons Taft.

2. Comprehension Check

Pair work: With the teacher as guide, you and your partner work on the following comprehension check exercises.

2.1 Focusing on the main ideas

Complete the following paragraph with key information from the text.

Hessy Levinsons Taft was born in Germany right after Hitler came to power. When she was six months old, her parents had her picture taken. They put it on the piano as a private family photo. Nonetheless, to their horror, the picture soon appeared on the cover of a(n) Nazi magazine. Being Jews/Jewish, they were afraid of publicity. So they contacted the photographer to find out what had happened. The photographer explained that he had sent in his 10 best pictures for a(n) competition/contest run by the Nazis, and that he had included Hessy's picture in his submissions as a joke. As it happened, Hessy was picked as the perfect Aryan baby. Within weeks, Hessy's picture was seen everywhere. The whole story was the ultimate (绝顶的) irony for the Nazi racist theory.

This story touches on the broad theme of Nazi Germany's anti-Semitism, but given that it is a story written for a newspaper, the writer has to tell a story that must be fresh and show specificity to be of interest to general readership. Therefore, as we see in this text, the writer chooses the dramatic story of a Nazi poster girl who was declared the "perfect Aryan" child by Nazi propaganda and actually turned out to be Jewish.

While it is written for a newspaper, this is not a hard news story but a feature story. Unlike a time-sensitive hard news story, it does not have all the key information (who, what, when, where, why, how) packed and delivered in the very first sentence or the first two sentences (known as "lead"). Instead, the writer takes time to use a narrative to set the scene with the key information in the first two paragraphs (known as “delayed lead”) to grab readers’ attention and draw them into the story of human interest.

The delayed scene-setting lead, or a narrative hook, is followed by the essential idea of the story (known as “nutgraf”) expressed in a nutshell in the third paragraph. In the meantime, highly relevant background information is provided in the first, fourth and fifth paragraphs about Nazi Germany, the child’s persecuted Jewish parents, and the original source of the story.

The beginning sentence of the fourth paragraph serves well as a clever transition from the lead to the detailed recount of the story. It helps to build a sense of anticipation about the unfolding and untangling of the complicated story.

It is obvious that the story takes a narrative approach with such elements as conflict (what the girl’s parents intended the picture for versus what the photographer used the picture for) and climax (the Jewish girl was picked as the perfect Aryan child). It gives all the details at length about why the girl's parents had the picture taken, what happened to make them terrified, and how the picture ended up in Nazi propaganda. Compared with a hard news story, it is longer and unfolds in time sequence with a slower pace.

Two more points are worth noting. Both are closely related to news writing in general. One is that the writer remains objective by staying out of the picture and letting the story speak for itself. Even though this story is meant to be a heavy irony, readers only perceive that through the direct quotes from the photographer and Taft. The other point is the short paragraph length and the language used. Most paragraphs contain one to three sentences to avoid big blocks of text.

- 1 Do you think racial discrimination still exists in today's world? What are the causes of racial discrimination? What can be done to eliminate racial discrimination?

2 World War II has brought trauma to generations. What should countries do to prevent such world wars from happening again?

What is collocation? Why is collocation important?

Collocation (搭配) is the way in which some words are very often used together to produce natural spoken or written English. For example, in English you say strong wind but heavy rain. It is combinations of words such as these that are most important to communicative competence (交际能力) in English. Having a good command of collocation will certainly make your speech or writing much more natural, more native-speaker-like.

adj. + prep.

Some adjectives are often followed by a certain fixed (固定的) preposition (介词), as shown in the following examples taken from the text:

- 1) The magazine was a Nazi magazine with pages full of images of men wearing swastikas ... (Para. 11)
- 2) The parents were equally shocked and “amazed at the irony of it all.” (Para. 18)

Complete each of the following sentences with the word in brackets and a proper preposition. Make changes or additions where necessary.

1 Old buildings are prone to damage in severe (极端的) weather if no proper measures are taken to protect them. (prone)

2 The whole world is amazed at how fast China has been developing in the past thirty years. (amaze)

3 Now in the fifth year of our marriage, my wife is pregnant with our second child. (pregnant)

5 Beijing, a mixture of the old and the new, is full of surprises and fun. (full)

Model:

Reporter: Hello, Prof. Taft, I'm a reporter with Germany's Bild newspaper. Would you please talk about the story of your photograph appearing on a Nazi magazine?

Prof. Taft: Sure. Recently I presented the magazine to the Yad Vashem Holocaust Memorial. Its front cover carries a photograph of me as a little baby. You might find it remarkable that my photograph was chosen as the image of the ideal Aryan baby when anti-Semitism

was surging in Berlin. (remarkable, present, surge)

Reporter: Yes, indeed, Prof. Taft, because we know, you have parents of Jewish origin . (Jewish origin)

Prof. Taft: You're right. My mom exclaimed in horror at the news about me appearing on the Nazi magazine, because people would find out the baby was Jewish. So she went back to the photographer to ask what had happened. He explained that there was a contest to pick the most beautiful Aryan baby, and he had deliberately (故意地) submitted the picture/photo .
(submit, find out, exclaim, contest)

Reporter: Did the Nazis discover who you were and did they find you?

Prof. Taft: Fortunately, no, for my family fled Germany in 1938. We moved first to Latvia, then took refuge in Paris until the Nazis took control of the city. We had a visa problem with the U.S., so we stayed in Cuba before we finally came to settle in the U.S. in 1949. (take control of, flee, take refuge in)

Reporter: Your story sounds horrible. Are you angry at the photographer?

Prof. Taft: No, actually as I reflect on my personal story, I'm thankful that this outstanding photographer did what he did. I'm also pleased that I've added my story to the numerous revelations about how ridiculous (荒唐) the Nazis were. I do hope I've delivered the message to the world in my way. (numerous, deliver, outstanding)

Our second true story from the time tells of how one small Jewish child managed to survive in the midst of the slaughter (屠杀) at a terrible cost.

The Youngest Corporal in the Nazi Army

Bob Simon

- 🔊 T 1 (1) This is a story of survival — the incredible story of how a six-year-old Jewish boy survived the Nazis’ final solution and kept how he survived a secret for more than 50 years.
- 🔊 T 2 It’s the story of Alex Kurzem, who at the age of six watched his family being shot by the Nazis. He escaped and wandered alone for months until he was captured by Nazi soldiers. But instead of killing him, they made him their mascot.
- 🔊 T 3 Alex was so young, he quickly forgot his family name, his age, and the name of his village. But he did remember that night when Nazi soldiers burst into his house and began beating his mother.
- 🔊 T 4 Kurzem’s mother hid her children under her skirts as the blows rained down. But while she could shield them from the soldiers’ blows, she could not protect her children from their bullets. That night Alex’s mother took him in her arms, saying, “Tomorrow we all have to die.”

- 🔊 T 5 However, unwilling to die, Alex crawled through the grass that night and snuck past Nazi soldiers up to the top of a hill. He hid in a forest overlooking the village. When day broke he heard a lot of noise below. Looking down, he saw soldiers lining up people and shooting them in a big pit. And his family were among them.
- 🔊 T 6 Village records say the Nazis killed more than 1,600 people there on October 21, 1941, and Nazi records show that a Nazi battalion took Alex in on July 12, 1942.
- 🔊 T 7 The months in between are a mystery. Alex says all he remembers is wandering alone, cold and hungry in the forest. He took a winter coat off a dead soldier to keep from freezing to death. And he slept in empty sheds and trees.
- 🔊 T 8 He begged for food at farm houses, until one day he knocked on the wrong door. The man who opened the door took him to a Nazi soldier.

🔊 T 9 Quite unexpectedly, that soldier took pity on the little boy. He not only gave Alex bread, he gave him his life. He told the other soldiers that Alex was a Russian orphan. The soldiers gave him a new name and made him the mascot, a good luck

🔊 T charm, of their division.

10 The soldiers gave him SS uniforms and made him the youngest corporal in the Nazi army. Alex marched off with his 🔊 T division as they went off to kill Jews.

11 Later in the war, when the fighting became too intense with the Russian advance, his fellow soldiers gave him to a 🔊 T prominent Nazi family in Riga, Latvia.

12 During the summers when he was 7 and 8, Alex and his Latvian foster family spent their weekends at a beach near Riga. There the Germans made a propaganda film starring Alex, the youngest corporal in the Nazi army — a role model for the master race.

- 🔊 T 13 Alex felt funny. He lived in fear every day. He was afraid the soldiers and his foster family would discover his identity. (2) He had to be aware every moment no matter where he was, that he was living under false pretenses. Once discovered, he would be gone.
- 🔊 T 14 After the war, he migrated to Australia, married and had his own family. But he still kept his secrets and didn't tell anyone that he'd spent the war with the Nazis or that he was a Jew.
- 🔊 T 15 (3) He kept those secrets for more than 50 years before he felt compelled to answer the questions that had haunted him since the war. He thought before he died, he should know who he was. And also he always wished to go back to the village and put a flower on his mother's grave.
- 🔊 T 16 But this wouldn't be easy. Orphaned at age six, he had long forgotten his true identity. He didn't know his name or his birth date, or the name of his village. (4) The only clue he had to anything was one word that had stuck in his mind for all those years: Koidanov.

- 🔊 T 17 But he had no idea what it meant. He searched in vain for months until a historian finally discovered that Koidanov had been the former name of a town in Belarus, outside Minsk.
- 🔊 T 18 With that breakthrough, he finally returned to Koidanov, to find his old house still standing there and an apple tree he used to climb.
- 🔊 T 19 Kurzem said he couldn't believe it. His real name was Elia Solomonovich Kalperin.

The story of the mistreatment of the Jews by the Nazis shows many instances of mankind at its worst. But it also provides examples of mankind at its best, with strangers willing to give shelter to those fleeing persecution (迫害). Shanghai has a proud history in this respect, as this young girl's story reveals.

— A Young Girl's Story Highlights a Rare WWII Place of Refuge

🔊 T 1 Nina Admoni was six when Germany invaded her native Poland. Fleeing falling bombs and seeing starving people beg for food along the Trans-Siberian Railway were some of her first encounters with World War II.

🔊 T 2 That was before she made it to Shanghai.

🔊 T 3 Thanks to good fortune and kindness, Nina's childhood years in Hongkou, Shanghai were a world apart from the horrors of Europe. She played hopscotch with her Chinese and Jewish friends and wandered along the Bund, the city's main fairway, to and from school each day.

🔊 T 4 During World War II, some 20,000 Jews found refuge from the Holocaust in the vibrant Chinese city. David Kranzler, a noted Holocaust historian, calls it the "miracle of Shanghai" — a rare bright spot in the dark tragedy of that era.

-  T 5 After heading the Israel-America Chamber of Commerce for 26 years, Nina, now 79, is still an active woman who wakes up at 5 a.m. each day at her home in Tel Aviv's Ramat Aviv Gimmel. She looks back on her experience in Shanghai fondly, even idyllically. "The Chinese people in Shanghai were very kind," she said softly. "That's what I remember."
-  T 6 Shanghai, an international city, was then divided, as a result of foreign invasion, into sections such as the Shanghai International Settlement and the French Concession.
-  T 7 Nina's family first moved to the French Concession. They lived on Avenue Joffre. But by late 1943, the Germans told the Japanese that the Polish Jews were "stateless" — Poland no longer existed, as it was under German rule, they claimed. The Germans demanded that Shanghai's "stateless Jews" be moved to a designated area. Life in the designated area — the ghetto — was harsh. But it proved safe.

  8 Nina, as a young girl, was free to leave the area and play with her friends; her father, on the other hand, was not allowed to move around, and could not continue the work he had found as an engineer. People needed passes to leave the designated area; yet they became increasingly difficult to obtain. Therefore her father could not but stay home most of the time. He taught Nina geography, history, mathematics, and literature. “He had a large map on the wall, and he followed the war closely, using pins to mark the progress of the war... That’s how I learned.”

  9 “I was young, and I really enjoyed playing with my Chinese friends — although I didn’t speak a word of Chinese. You know, at that age you don’t really need a common language; children find ways to speak to each other. We played a lot of games,” she recounted, nostalgia in her voice.

  10 Nina attended the excellent Shanghai Jewish School — “with the best teachers.” While war destroyed the lives of so many children in distant Europe, Nina’s concerns were whether she would be first, or second, in her class. She did not know the extent of the horrors at the start of the Holocaust — and if her parents did, they shielded her from the devastation.

 4 What does the expression “the miracle of Shanghai” in Para. 4 mean?

Cultivating Core Values — Friendship

Friendship is a traditional virtue of the Chinese nation formed over thousands of years, and is one of the basic elements of core socialist values. Being friendly means treating our family, friends, others, and the society with our greatest respect and goodness. We need this warm stream of friendship to build up the harmonious society that we all enjoy settling in and working for, which basically sets the ethical foundation of the social order.

Friendship requires citizens to view each other equally, seeing through the differences among people. The best strategy is treating other people the way we want to be treated, which means putting ourselves in others' shoes and understanding their perspectives, opinions, or situations. It's still the same when the scenario isn't set in one country, but the world. And Nina, once a Polish girl saved in Shanghai, has benefited from a friendship that goes beyond national borders.

Pair work: Work with your partner to complete the following dialogue, using the words and phrases in brackets. Make changes or additions where necessary.

A: What do you think made Shanghai “a rare bright spot” in the dark tragedy of that era?

B: What happened to the world triggered the Chinese people’s instinct to help those suffering. The Jews were forced to 1) flee their motherland as a result of German invasion. Out of the friendliness and kindness running in her blood, Shanghai opened her arms and embraced the refugees, setting them apart from the horrors, and providing them with opportunities for safety and happiness. Aren’t you amazed at how the Chinese treated the Jewish refugees so kindly even though they don’t come from a same motherland? (flee, apart from, as a result of)

A: Yes! I believe it's because the scope of friendship can go beyond a state and reach the world. After all, both the Chinese and the Jews are human beings who strive for a living in every era of history. It was empathetic for the Chinese to realize that they would also need a hand to get through the tragedy. The beautiful union of the two peoples was idyllic, which made Shanghai a miraculously bright spot in that era of darkness.

(bright spot, strive, tragedy)

B: I absolutely agree. But I always believe that only by speaking can people actually communicate with each other, why it was not the case with Nina when she was young?

A: As Nina recounted that children could always find ways to speak to each other, we can see the friendship is the common language that is understood by everyone regardless of their gender, skin color, or background. They can always appreciate the good in others and return the good deeds in their own special way. Nina got the access to an excellent school with the best teachers, and she showed her gratitude by making friends with her Chinese mates. She shared the fond memories later on in her life when looking back on her experience in Shanghai. (common, recount, look back on)

B: Right, Nina's relationship with her friends protected her from a harsh time being a refugee, but I believe her father's way of teaching also shielded her from most of the hardships. He taught Nina the thing he knew and made the best of the time in the designated area. He tried his very best to build up this wonderful parenthood with kindness and love. Sometimes we take granted for the kindness that our parents give to us and forget how significant it is. (designate, shield, build up)

A: Indeed! Friendship and kindness can contribute to the construction of a solid relationship, wonderful parenthood, and harmonious society. They are values that none of us can ever forget as responsible Chinese citizens. We should all believe in the huge power behind friendship and kindness, and put them into practice along the way to be a better person, to contribute more to the society, and to play a role in realizing the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation. (believe in, contribute, put into practice)

The story of how Shanghai helped shelter Jewish refugees during World War II is being told in New York. The 90-minute documentary Survival in Shanghai produced by Shanghai Media Group premiered (首映) in Manhattan on Monday evening.

“What happened in Shanghai and the lasting 1) friendship they found is one of the most memorable chapters of the long relations between the Chinese and the Jewish people,” said Zhang Qiyue, consul general of China in New York.

During World War II, Shanghai was one of two visa-free regions. Approximately 25,000 Jews from Germany, Poland and other nations 2) fled to Shanghai and found 3) refuge from the Holocaust.

“We must not forget this ‘4) miracle of Shanghai,’” said Amir Sagie, deputy consul general of Israel in New York. “Though people in the Chinese mainland were suffering from the darkness of Japanese 5) invasion, citizens in Shanghai welcomed the unfamiliar Jewish strangers and 6) shielded them from devastation,” Amir added.

Some refugees attended the film event. Betty Grenbenschikoff lived in Shanghai's 7) designated area — the ghetto as a young girl. "Life was 8) harsh at that time. We lived in an extremely shabby house, but we still lived happily, and it was safe in Shanghai," she said.

The production team of the documentary 9) interviewed around 40 Shanghai Jewish survivors. "The true stories they 10) recounted brought back that part of history before us. And their peaceful life nowadays makes us feel how important an open city with a diversified civilization is," said Song Jiongming, managing director of news of Shanghai Media Group.

2. Translate the following passage into English.

友善是中华民族千百年形成的传统美德，是社会主义核心价值观的基本要素之一。我们要用最大的尊重和善意对待亲人、朋友、他人和社会，努力构建一个和谐社会。

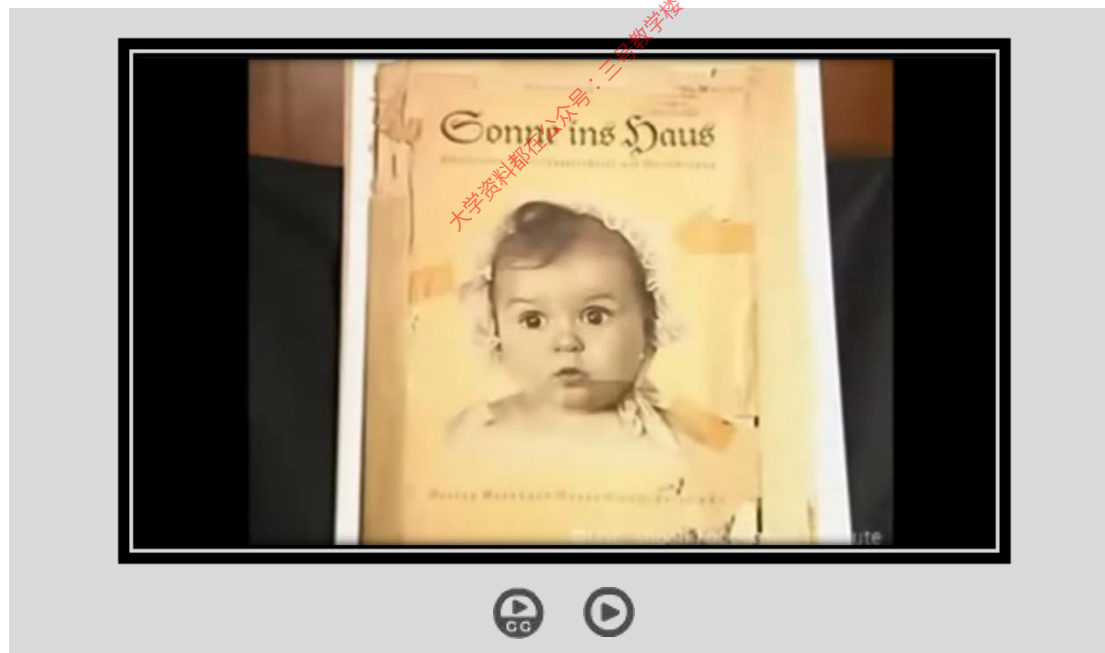

Friendship is a traditional virtue of the Chinese nation formed over thousands of years, and is one of the basic elements of core socialist values. We should treat our relatives, friends, others and the society with the utmost respect and kindness, and strive to build a harmonious society.

友善也是超越国界的。二战期间，逃离纳粹统治的犹太人在中国获得庇护，得到了同样处于困境中的中国人民的鼎力相助。中国人民的友善精神会世代相传，我们要将友善的价值观融入我们的生活与学习中。

Friendship also goes beyond national borders. During World War II, the Jews fleeing Nazi rule found refuge in China, and received the great support of the Chinese people who were also in trouble. The friendly spirit of the Chinese people will be passed on from generation to generation, and we should integrate the value of friendship into our lives and study.

After the outbreak of the Pacific War, the Japanese invaders 3) set up a ghetto. They forced tens of thousands of Jews to live in a 4) stateless refugee-restricted residential area, which is where today’s Shanghai Jewish Refugees Museum is 5) located.

● The fate of the Jewish refugees later became closely intertwined with that of their Chinese counterparts in Shanghai. In 1945, when the world 6) won its war against Fascism, the Jewish refugees in Shanghai started to 7) seek information about their families back in Europe. But with only sad news coming, the Jews in Shanghai soon realized that leaving their homeland, although heartrending, might have been the 8) best decision they had ever made.

Group project: Remembering the tragedy of the Jews being persecuted (迫害) during World War II has been the motive behind many movie and TV works. Watch the American movie Schindler's List (1993) (《辛德勒的名单》) which tells the true story of German entrepreneur Oskar Schindler who saved the lives of more than 1,100 Jews during World War II, and learn about the Chinese TV series The Last Visa (2017) (《最后一张签证》) which is based on the story of Ho Fengshan and his colleagues who helped the Jews escape to Shanghai. Work in groups and discuss what you think of Oskar Schindler and Ho Fengshan. Then each group writes a report (200–300 words) about your impressions on the two heroes.

On completion of this unit, you are expected to:

- have a thorough understanding of the text contextually and linguistically;
- build up an active vocabulary to talk about the Jews' horrific experiences in World War II and know how to use the key words and expressions in context properly;
- understand what happened to the Jews during the period of Nazi rule;
- discuss the impact of war on people so as to value peace and life;
- learn lessons from history and understand the significance of history to the future of humanity;
- write a paragraph on the human losses World War II caused.

“Marriages between Jews and German citizens or those of similar blood are forbidden.” The Marriage Law, one of the Nuremberg Decrees of 1935, was aimed at protecting the purity of German blood. The Nazis divided people into racial types. They said Germans were descended from the Aryan race. This propaganda film shows Aryans of old, the Teutonic Knights, supposedly the root of all German culture and nobility. Pure Aryan Germans could be recognized from their blonde hair and blue eyes. It was all a fantasy but the fantasy was dressed up as science. Germans were being taught to think of other races as somehow less than perfect, and the German people bought the lie. Signs cropped up. Jews are not wanted here.

“Arbeit macht frei” — work sets you free, on the gates of Dachau, a model concentration camp.

The SS were Hitler’s instrument of terror in the creation of the new order. It was only logical that they should run the camps.

Their first prisoners were the dissidents (持不同意见者) of the Nazi State, political and religious, as well as racial. The SS schooled themselves in brutality, systematically reducing their victims to total subservience (卑屈), depriving them of individuality: no name, number.

September 1935, the Nuremberg Laws. In the Reichstag, Hermann Göring spelled out the purpose of the Reich Citizenship Act and the act for the protection of German blood and German honor: Pure must not mix with impure. From now on, intermarriage was forbidden, and sex declared illegal between pure Aryan and impure Jew.

Appealing to feelings and beliefs deep rooted in European Christian culture, Nazi propaganda pilloried (抨击, 嘲弄) the dirty Jew: dishonest, scheming, money-lending capitalist and subversive communist, verminous (恶心的), unclean, racially inferior. Jews are not wanted here. But for leaders seeking to unite a people, they were mighty useful scapegoats to unite against.

In schools, the Jew boy stood by the blackboard as their classmates pointed out the difference. German school children were taught to despise Jewish culture as soft and evil, to be proud of their own strength, their own purity.

虽说这一披露非同寻常，但更为惊人的是整个事件的来龙去脉。那个女孩，现已80岁，名叫赫塞·莱文森斯·塔夫脱，最近她将刊登着自己婴儿时期照片的那本杂志的封面捐赠给了以色列的犹太大屠杀纪念馆，并向德国《图片报》讲述了自己的故事。

(Para.4)

故事要从1928年讲起，那年她父母来到柏林。两人都是歌手。父亲雅各布在当地一家歌剧院谋得了一个职位。当时正值柏林反犹太运动高涨之时，剧院发现他是犹太人时，就废除了合同。

(Para.5)

这对年轻夫妇住在拥挤的一居室公寓里，1934年5月17日，生下了赫塞·莱文森斯。女婴非常漂亮。孩子6个月大时，当父母的决定给她照张相。两人把她带到柏林一位顶级摄影师那儿，拍出了一张非常美的照片。

(Para.6)

孩子的父母非常喜欢这张照片，把照片镶在镜框中，摆放在钢琴上。他俩以为这只是一张私家照片。可是不久，帮助打扫公寓的女佣来跟他们说了件令人惊讶的事。（Para.7）

“知道吗，”女佣说，“我在城里看到赫塞的照片登在一本杂志封面上。” (Para.8)

大学资料都在图书馆三号楼

赫塞的母亲觉得这不可信。她解释道，婴儿长得都差不多，女佣肯定看走眼了。可是女佣并没有错。（Para.9）

“没错，没错，”女佣对塔夫脱的母亲说。“肯定是赫塞。你给我点钱，我可以去把杂志给你买来。” (Para.10)

钱给了，女佣很快就买回了杂志。封面上的照片跟钢琴上的那张一模一样。那是本纳粹杂志，一页页都是佩戴万字符标记的士兵们的照片，甚至还有一幅是希特勒本人检阅军队的照片。

(Para.11)

当父母的吓坏了。自己的犹太孩子怎么就上了纳粹杂志的封面呢？
(Para.12)

大学资料都在图书馆三号楼

他们联系上了为孩子拍照的摄影师，想搞清楚到底是怎么回事。
(Para.13)

摄影师告诉他们，他接到通知，要送10幅最好的照片，参加纳粹举办的一个选美比赛。德国还有10位杰出摄影师也被要求参加。他送上了赫塞的照片。

(Para.14)

“可你明明知道赫塞是个犹太孩子。”当母亲的惊叫道。
(Para.15)

大学资料都在图书馆三号楼

“是的。”摄影师答道，他说那是个遴选雅利安种族最完美形象的比赛，以此助推纳粹哲学。“我就是想开个玩笑找个乐。你看，我没错。那么多孩子当中，他们偏偏挑赫塞这孩子作为完美的雅利安人。”

(Para.16)

家族故事常有夸大其词之虞——不过这个故事听上去却蛮真实的。塔夫脱收存了好多自己的照片，刊登在各种出版物上，印在各种明信片上。“现在我可以对这事发笑，”现为纽约圣约翰大学化学教授的塔夫脱说，“可在当时，要是纳粹知道了我的真实身份，我就活不下去了。” (Para.17)

孩子的父母既震惊又“觉得这一切极具讽刺意味”。在其后几个星期里，这幅照片处处可见。塔夫脱说，有一次，那是1935年5月，她姨妈去店里为她买一周岁生日卡片，结果发现一张印有塔夫脱婴儿照片的明信片。“我姨妈一声没吭，把它买了下来。这些年来，我父母一直带着那张明信片。”

(Para.18)

最终莱文森斯一家逃出了欧洲，在古巴避难数年，后移民美国。20世纪40年代后期，在纽约市定居，赫塞结了婚，婚后名叫赫塞·莱文森斯·塔夫脱。（Para.19）

纳粹军中最年轻的下士

鲍勃·西蒙

这是一个讲述幸存的故事，一个难以置信的故事：一个6岁犹太男孩设法逃脱了纳粹灭绝犹太人的种族大屠杀，并将自己幸存的经历隐藏了半个多世纪。

(Para.1)

故事的主人公是阿列克斯·库泽姆，6岁时他亲眼目睹家人惨遭纳粹枪杀。他逃了出去，独自一人游荡了好几个月，直到后来被纳粹士兵抓住。但纳粹士兵没有杀死他，而是把他当作军营福星。

(Para.2)

阿列克斯年纪太小，很快就不再记得自己姓什么，有多大年纪，家住什么村子。但他一直记得那个夜晚，纳粹士兵闯入家门并开始殴打他母亲。

(Para.3)

库泽姆的母亲把孩子们藏在她的裙子下，自己承受着不停的殴打。她保护得了孩子们不受士兵的殴打，却无法庇护他们不受枪弹的射击。那天晚上，母亲把阿列克斯抱在怀里，说：“明天咱们全都得死。”

(Para.4)

但阿列克斯不想死，他当天夜晚爬过草丛，躲过纳粹士兵偷偷溜到山顶。他躲在正对着山下村子的林子里。天亮时他听到山下闹哄哄的。他往下一看，只见士兵们把村民排成队并把他们射杀在一个大坑里。他的家人也在其中。 (Para.5)

村里的档案记载道，1941年10月21日，纳粹杀了村里
1 多人。纳粹档案显示，1942年7月12日，纳粹的一个营收留了
阿列克斯。 (Para.6)

这其间的数月发生了什么是一个谜。阿列克斯说他只记得自己独自一人在树林里游荡，挨饿受冻。为了不让自己冻死，他剥下了一个士兵尸体上的冬衣。他在没人的棚子里、树林里过夜。

(Para.7)

他去农舍讨吃的，直到有一天他没找对人家。应门的男人把他领到一个纳粹士兵那里。 (Para.8)

大学资料都在公众号：大学资料

完全出乎意料的是，那个士兵对这个小男孩动了怜悯之心。他不仅给了阿列克斯面包，还给了他一条生路。他跟其他士兵说阿列克斯是个俄罗斯孤儿。那些当兵的给他取了个新的名字，让他当他们师的福星，做他们的好运护身符。 (Para.9)

士兵们还给了他党卫军制服，让他成了纳粹陆军最年轻的下士。阿列克斯跟着他的师一起行军去杀犹太人。（Para.10）

二战后期，随着俄军西进，战斗越打越激烈，他的战友们就把他寄托给拉脱维亚里加市一户颇有名望的纳粹人家。

(Para.11)

大学资料都在公众号：大学资料

7岁和8岁时，阿列克斯两个夏天都和拉脱维亚的寄养家庭一起去里加附近的海边度周末。在那里，德国人拍了一部宣传片，主演就是纳粹军队最年轻的下士阿列克斯——雅利安这个优等民族的楷模。

(Para.12)

阿列克斯感到很滑稽。他每天都生活在恐惧中。他担心纳粹士兵和寄养家庭会发现自己的身份。无论身处何地，他都得时刻警醒，知道自己生活在假面之下。一旦被发现，他就完了。

(Para.13)

二战后他移民澳大利亚，在那里结婚安家。但他仍然守着自己的秘密，只字不提二战时自己跟纳粹在一起，只字不提自己是犹太人。

(Para.14)

大学资料都在公众号：大学资料

这些秘密他守了50多年，直到最后他觉得一定要回答从二战一开始就萦绕心头的问题。他想应该在有生之年弄明白自己到底是谁。再者，他一直有个心愿，想回到自己出生的村庄，在母亲的坟头献上鲜花。

(Para.15)

但这谈何容易。他6岁就成了孤儿，早就忘了自己真实的身份。他不知道自己的名字、出生日期，也不记得自己出生的村名。他唯一的线索是那么多年来脑子里一直念念不忘的一个词：科伊达诺夫。

(Para.16)

但他并不知道这个词的意思。他搜寻数月毫无结果，后来，一位历史学家终于发现，科伊达诺夫是白俄罗斯明斯克郊外一个镇的旧名。

(Para.17)

大学资料都在公众号

这一突破最终使他回到了科伊达诺夫，他发现家里那老房子还在，还有一棵他以前常常攀爬的苹果树。 (Para.18)

库泽姆说他真难以置信。他的真名是伊利亚·索罗门诺维奇·加佩林。

(Para.19)

在科伊达诺夫，阿列克斯完成了另一个一生的心愿：在为1941年惨遭纳粹屠杀的1,600名犹太人而建的纪念碑前，他在母亲坟头献上了鲜花。（Para.20）

在上海得救

——一位姑娘的往事彰显了一个罕见的二战难民收容地

迈克尔·舒洛维奇

德国人入侵她的祖国波兰时，尼娜·阿德莫尼才6岁。她沿着西伯利亚大铁路一路逃离轰炸，目睹饥饿的人们沿路乞讨，这些是她在二次大战期间最初的一些经历。 (Para.1)

在她到达上海之后，情况就不一样了。

(Para.2)

大学资料都在公众号
三号教学楼

多亏命运的眷顾和人们的仁慈，尼娜在上海虹口度过的童年与欧洲的恐怖有天壤之别。她和中国小朋友、犹太小朋友一起玩跳房子游戏，每天上学、放学路上漫步在外滩这个上海主要的大道上。

(Para.3)

二战期间，约有2万多犹太人在这个充满活力的中国城市获得庇护，免遭屠杀。著名犹太大屠杀史学家大卫·克兰茨勒称其为“上海奇迹”——那个时代黑暗悲剧中一个稀有的亮点。

(Para.4)

尼娜曾担任以色列—美国商会主席26年之久，现年79岁，依然是一位活跃的女性，家住特拉维夫市拉马塔维夫吉梅尔地区，她每天早上5点就起床忙碌。她深情地，甚至诗情般地，回顾着自己的上海经历。“上海的中国人非常好，”她轻声道，“我记得的就是这样。” (Para.5)

由于外国的入侵，国际都市上海当时被分为几片，例如上海公共租界和法租界。（Para.6）

大学资料都在公众号：三书教学

尼娜家最初落脚在法租界。他们住在霞飞路。但到1943年下半年，德国人通知日本人，波兰犹太人为“无国籍者”——他们说波兰这个国家不复存在，已为德国所统治。德国人要求将上海那些“无国籍犹太人”移往指定区域。在指定区域——即犹太人区——的生活是艰苦的，但却是安全的。（Para.7）

尼娜那时还是个小姑娘，可以自由出入犹太人区跟小朋友玩；但她父亲就不得随意走动，也无法继续做他本已找到的工程师的工作。人们离开指定区域需要通行证，但通行证越来越难拿到。于是她父亲只好大多数时间呆在家里。他教尼娜地理、历史、数学和文学。“他在墙上挂了一张大地图，他密切关注战事，用图钉标识战争进程……我就是这么学习的。”（Para.8）

“我那时还小，非常喜欢跟中国小朋友一起玩，虽然我一句中文也不会说。你知道，在那个年龄真的用不着有共同语言，小孩子会有办法相互交流。我们一起玩许多游戏。”她回忆道，言谈间充满了怀旧之情。

(Para.9)

尼娜上的是极好的上海犹太人学校——“老师都是最棒的。”在遥远的欧洲，战争夺去了许许多多孩子的生命，而尼娜当时关心的却是自己是班上第一名还是第二名。她对大屠杀开始时的恐怖一无所知——如果说她的父母是知情的话，他们也是保护了她免受摧残。

(Para.10)

Jews in Shanghai — A Home Away from Home

This is the photo of Sara Imas and her father. Just like many other Jews living in Europe, Imas' father endured a lot of cruelty during World War II. To escape the Nazi regime, he had to leave his homeland. Worse still, the Évian Conference, which was convened in France in 1938 to discuss the problem of Jewish refugees fleeing Germany, had little impact on the plight of the refugees.

During this unprecedented tragedy, some six million Jews were killed just because of who they were. While other countries shut their doors to the refugees, China welcomed them.

At least 500 Jewish babies were born in Shanghai. Eighty-year-old Sonja Mühlberger was among them, too.

"My mother was pregnant with me. And they came from Germany to Shanghai in April 1939."

"And then they would travel all the way here to Shanghai. This trip will take about 29 to 30 days. And it's about a month."

About 20,000 Jewish refugees fled to Shanghai between 1933 and 1941. At that time, Japanese troops occupied parts of Shanghai. After the outbreak of the Pacific War, the Japanese invaders set up a ghetto. They forced tens of thousands of Jews to live in a stateless refugee-restricted residential area, which is where today's Shanghai Jewish Refugees Museum is located.

"The Chinese were also in that designated area in this overcrowded place in that surrounding. So we had no problems with them."

The fate of the Jewish refugees later became closely intertwined with that of their Chinese counterparts in Shanghai. In 1945, when the world won its war against Fascism, the Jewish refugees in Shanghai started to seek information about their families back in Europe. But with only sad news coming, the Jews in Shanghai soon realized that leaving their homeland, although heartrending, might have been the best decision they had ever made.

To help preserve their history, the Hongkou District Government opened the Shanghai Jewish Refugees Museum in 2007 in a renovated Moshe Synagogue inside a former Jewish residential complex.

In September 2014, a memorial wall with the names of 13,732 Jewish refugees was erected at the museum. Mühlberger helped collect a considerable amount of them.

“There are so many people. They’re trying to find their relatives. I really like to find out that how many people really have been or arrived in Shanghai as refugees, so this is still in my mind.”

As an offspring of the combined history between China and the Jewish refugees who fled to Shanghai, Imas donated a statue titled “Standing Together” and penned a poem describing how grateful she is to the Chinese people and nation.

1.1 For this task, the topic is “human losses”.

1.2 Write a topic statement.

(e.g. War causes immense human suffering. Take World War II for example ...)

2. Arrange the structure and then write an outline.

For this topic, you may include the following ideas:

— the world’s total casualties

(e.g. It is claimed that worldwide it caused ... casualties, including ... civilians.)

— China’s casualties

(e.g. In our own resistance to Japanese aggression, China suffered ... casualties, with ... killed in the Nanjing Massacre.)

— the suffering of civilians

War causes immense human suffering. Take World War II, for example. It is claimed that worldwide it caused a total of 61 million casualties, including 40 million civilians. In our own resistance to Japanese aggression, China suffered over 35 million casualties, with 300 thousand Chinese killed in the infamous Nanjing Massacre alone. In Europe, 6 million Jews perished. While some managed to flee the Holocaust in time, many did not. Children were not spared. Along with their parents they were delivered to the slaughter in cattle trucks to serve Hitler's insane image of an Aryan master race that would take control of the world. Throughout every continent those who survived the horrors of war had to bear deep emotional scars.
