A. Important language B. Discussion

Asking about shopping habits.

Ask your partner questions about his or her shopping habits. If your partner says yes, ask one more question. Use the language below.

Do you ever buy things you don't need?

Yeah, sometimes.

What do you buy?

Shoes. I have fifteen pairs in my closet!

Language Note

Language Note

- Don't mix up Do you ever ...? with Have you ever ...?
- Simply, the question Do you ever ...? is used to ask about a habit or general state of affairs. For example, Do you ever watch that TV show? means “Do you sometimes watch that TV show?”
- The question Have you ever watched that TV show? is used to ask if something has happened at least once or not. It is not a question about a habit or the general state of affairs.

Distinguishing Between Similar Sounds

It is important to distinguish between similar sounds while listening. Names like Jean and Jane, figures like 18 and 80 can sound quite alike. Titles like Mrs. and Miss can also be confusing.
